

Fighting Words Kerry Workshops

Would your school like to participate in a free Fighting Words Creative Writing workshop online? Then contact us today.

Kerry Writers' Museum has been delivering the Fighting Words programme in Kerry since 2018. The programme was developed by author Roddy Doyle in 2009 and has now spread to the four corners of Ireland. Fighting Words helps students of all ages to develop their writing skills and to explore their love of writing.

Working together, with the help of our volunteer tutors, the children write an original story which they see being typed up onto a screen as it is being written. The children decide on the characters and plot and go through the story together sentence by sentence, editing as they go. A volunteer artist is also on hand to provide illustrations.

The class writes the first part of the story together as a group, then each child has the opportunity to write their own individual ending to the story, with the assistance and encouragement of our volunteer tutors.

The story and illustrations are bound, and each child receives a copy of the book to take home.

Fighting Words Kerry is now taking bookings for 2022 primary school workshops. Workshops will take place on Tuesday mornings from 10.30 am to 12.30 pm. For our online workshops access to a computer, projector and internet is required.

We are now delivering workshops both online and in-person at Kerry Writers' Museum, Listowel. Please tick the relevant box for your preferred delivery:
